PROTECT LEGITIMATE BUSINESS.

FOR the protection of the legitimate business men of the town it is to be hoped that the board of town trustees will adopt an ordinance regulating the operations of transient merchants and street "hawkers." Not infrequently the unsuspecting public is induced to spend its money for articles of inferior quality through the false representations of men who make it a business to travel from city to city imposing upon the rights of established business houses which are helping to build up the commonwealth.

The board of town trustees is called upon to face a problem similar to that which has confronted a score of other western cities within the last several years. In many of these cities it has been proven that the prohibitive license scheme has been effective. In other words, the plan of imposing a high license on transient merchants and "hawkers" has served to limit their operations and in some cases to make it practically impossible for them to further pursue their activities.

The legitimate business man pays to the town a regular merchant's license for the privilege to do business in the city. In addition to this he pays his share of taxes to upbuild the town, to develop its resources and maintain its institutions of learning. The street "hawker" who sets up his stand in the doorway of some unoccupied store or at the entrance of an alley does nothing to upbuild the community. He offers for sale various articles at prices which an unsuspecting and uninformed public believes are bargains. The public discovers its mistake when it is too late. When one field is "worked out," the "hawker" packs his trunk and goes to the next town to ply his "business" there.

DECLINE OF PENSIONS.

THE cost of military pensions to the government of the United States, which reached its summit in the fiscal year now ending, is expected to begin to go down rapidly unless the amounts paid to individual pensioners are again increased by congress.

During the first ten months of the present fiscal year the number of civil war veterans on the pension list decreased from 462,000 to 435,000 and 5,000 additional names will be dropped by the time the year ends. The pension estimates for the next fiscal year are therefore fixed at $169,000,000, as against $180,000,000 for the present fiscal year. Eleven millions of dollars does not seem very much when compared with $169,000,000, but it is a considerable sum, and, adding to it the reduction anticipated in the next twelve months, the decrease in this branch of governmental expense should equal the sums raised by the income corporation tax.

It is interesting to note in connection with this expense of $180,000,000 for military pensions in the present fiscal year the sums paid out by other warlike nations for the same purposes. Germany paid out only $110,000 in the last year; Great Britain, $117,843. Russia and Japan, the two nations that engaged in the bloodiest war since our civil war, plainly have no money to spare for pensions. Japan's pension expenses last year was $7,000, that of Russia $3,307.

Judge Langan is a candidate for the bench in the first judicial district. It is unfortunate that the judge does not come to Tonopah or Goldfield to make the race, which would be decidedly interesting. He would have a run for his money and also have an opportunity to hear what some live people think of him.

If there is fifty per cent truth in one-half the stories circulated about the Indian agency at Schurz it might behoove the Indian bureau to investigate the conduct of that office. The shooting of an agent was not without provocation, according to report.

The Carson News must have slipped a cog when it opens its editorial columns with a poem taken from the Denver Republican that went out of business six months ago. This hot weather is enervating.

"Cut out 80 per cent of the jobs and 95 per cent of the politicians is the recipe prescribed for relieving Nevada from the period of unrest." A back to the mines and farm movement as it were.

BELLEVILLE COMES BACK IN RANKS OF BULLION CAMPS

The old camp of Belleville, about twelve miles south of Mina, on the narrow gauge branch of the Nevada and California railway, and west of Candelaria, is rapidly getting into form again. F. C. Biddle, a mining man of San Francisco, is pushing work on a treating plant which promises to extract the values from the thousands of tons of tailings that have been lying there practically as waste for years. When Candelaria was in her prime days as a producer of ores a big milling plant was installed at Belleville and hundreds of thousands of tons of ore from that old bonanza camp was hauled to this mill and treated. As the cyanide process was little known in the early days of mining in Nevada these tailings were allowed to pile up as waste. Several parties, from time to time, have tried to treat and extract the values from these tailings, but the process of extraction of early days and the salts and chemicals used have made the ordinary cyanide methods of treatment a failure. But Mr. Biddle, after years of labor, has developed a method of treatment that practically makes a complete extraction of the values.

Recently the editor of the Western Nevada Miner inspected the operations being carried on and was very much surprised at the magnitude of the undertaking. On the west slope of Moho mountain the water in the springs owned by the Belleville company is being developed. Large tanks have been put in as reservoirs, and from these a new pipe line has been laid to the plant which is now being installed at Belleville. This pipe line is seven miles in length and will furnish an abundance of water for operations. The plant will shortly be completed and in operation, and will employ quite a force of men. It is the intention of the management to double the capacity of the plant by the first of the year. It is conservatively estimated that there are 500,000 tons of these tailings with values running into millions of dollars. This practically turning waste into treasure means much for the development of the southern part of Mineral county.

Belleville at one time was quite an important point in the early days and practically the outpost of civilization in Southern Nevada. It was in the old narrow gauge railway depot, which is still standing in Belleville, in which the late United States Senator George S. Nixon, as station agent and telegrapher, began his career in Nevada.—Western Nevada Miner.
